The IR/SEP(A) training course aims to upgrade the student pilot's level of proficiency to the necessary standards for operating Single Engine Piston (SEP) airplanes under Instrument Flight Rules (IFR), while flying Instrument Meteorological Conditions (IMC) with a minimum decision height of no less than 200 feet (60 m).

Entry Requirements:

- ✓ PPL(A) or CPL(A)
- ✓ EASA Medical Certificate Class 1 or 2
- ✓ Night rating (if the IR privileges will be used at night)

IR(A) Theoretical Knowledge Instruction (Ground School)

Distance Learning Course:

The IR(A) theory knowledge instruction course consists of 200 hrs total, most of them self-study. The specified classroom hours will be taught by experienced ground instructors in order for the student to achieve the highest level of theoretical knowledge to pass the, seven subjects, theoretical knowledge examinations.

Program's advancement is assessed by means of a series of Progress Tests (PT's) which are incorporated into the syllabus of the course.

The duration of the Theory Knowledge Instruction Course is approximately 6 months.

The IR(A) Theory knowledge instruction course includes 7 subjects, which are divided in the following scientific areas:

- | | |
|---|---------------------|
| • Air law | • Human performance |
| • Aircraft general knowledge — instrumentation. | • Meteorology |
| • Flight planning and monitoring | • Radio navigation |
| | • Communications |

NOTE:

If the applicant is a holder of the ATPL Theory Knowledge Examinations, then the IR(A) Theory Knowledge Instruction course is not required as the material would have been covered already, as long as the IR is completed by not more than 3 years after the last written ATPL Theory examination.
